Tue, Dixie's Land.
We're glad to meet near this inland sea;
Here on the slopes of Pennesseewassee.
Hoory, hoory, hoory, Norway Lake.
In Norway Lake where we went to school
And early learned the golden rule.
Hoory, hoory, hoory, Norway Lake.
Chorus
Then we're glad we are in Norway,
Hoory, hoory;
In Norway land we'll take our stand
To live and die in Norway;
Away, away, away down East in Norway;
Away, away, away down East in Norway;
In Norway Lake, where cool and sweet,
We met in the long day's blinding heat.
Hoory, hoory, hoory, Norway Lake.
Here where the shore and waters blend,
We met with many an old time friend.
Hoory, hoory, hoory, Norway Lake.
(Chorus)

No hero's health to this glad day
And the one that's coming one year away.
Hoory, hoory, hoory, Norway Lake.
As if you want a heart full of cheer,
Come and hear this song again next year.
Hoory, hoory, hoory, Norway Lake.
(Chorus)

The Fairs.

Next week, Sept. 9-10-11, is the date on the calendar for the 1913 Oxford County Agricultural Fair. May it have good weather, a good show and a good many people. It is hoped that all its old friends may be there, and as many more new friends.

The agricultural fairs are now engaging the interest and attention of the people of this and other states. Maine has in the vicinity of 50 of these exhibitions, local and state-wide and it is to be said to the credit of the state as well as to the management of these fairs that they are of a quality which win more than ordinary recognition.

The exhibits of live stock and produce, together with other features which make up the attractions of these public exhibitions, form not only good entertainment but also much that is instructive, while at the same time bearing evidence of the advancement which is marking the State in its rural life.

While to perhaps the majority of people the agricultural fair may seem to have simply the purpose of exhibiting prize stock and products or those of extra quality, the real purpose of the exhibition is educational. It does this in giving to those patronizing the fair a better conception of the achievement that is being made in the various departments that are conducted.

No one in visiting a fair can fail to appreciate the interest that is taken by the exhibitors in having first-class products. The fair naturally stimulates the best interest in raising the best products possible on the farm. In this way it does an educational work for the farmer, and serves to stimulate him to growing interest in making his farm and products of the highest quality.

It is safe to say that never has the agricultural fair been without its educational influence upon the farmer. It makes little difference whether he be a poor or a rich farmer, he is larger and more pretentious State fair, few if any farmers have attended without having stimulated in themselves a larger interest in the work on the farm.

There has also come the suggestion of their own ability to realize better results on their home places. They may not in very large number of instances have taken advantage of making exhibits, and yet this number has invariably increased, but the reflex influence of the fair has been felt by the farmer attending. In new instances he has returned to his home with a determination to seek better results the next season than he has tried for in the past.

This has been effectively done in the matter of the State aid, and today the tobacco habit and nervousness at home without interfering with business.

HIRAM.

Fire on Bill Merrill Hill.

On Aug. 20, a fire was discovered near the northeastern slope of Bill Merrill mountain. John B. Pike and others held it in check that night as much as possible. The mountain being 1,730 feet high, there was no water at hand, and the fire being about in the center of a forest of some fifteen square miles, extending from Hiram village to Clemons pond, and the Brownfield and Porter lines, and containing Bill Merrill mountain, Gould mountain, Wadsworth mountain, Mt. Cutter, Peaked Hill, Pine Hill and Oak Hill with the surface dry as tinder, it was a serious problem.

The selectmen soon mustered a force of 100 men from Hiram, East Hiram and South Hiram, and after two days of hard fighting the result was doubtful and the direct tendency of the wind and fire towards the residence of Ruth Clemons and her large amount of pine boards, where the portable mill stood. Furrows were plowed for miles along old roads and through fields and pastures to safe-guard buildings in various directions.

About midnight, Aug. 22, Providence sent down a drenching rain and brought relief. The area covered about 1,000 acres. It exceeds any forest fire that ever visited Hiram during the memory of our oldest inhabitants.

It is known that in 1824 a fire swept over the same mountain and the late Col. Charles Wadsworth fought fire three days and three nights without sleep, with some assistance, saved his home, and no fire has damaged this section since until the present one.

Daniel W. Pierce.

Our aged and respected townsman, Daniel W. Pierce, passed to his rest Aug. 20, aged 75 years, 1 month, 25 days.

He was a son of the late Daniel and Abigail Pierce and a grandson of John Pierce, who came from Baldwin to Hiram in May, 1794, and was one of the assessors in this town in 1803. The deceased resided on the old ancestral farm, among whose giant forest trees three feet in diameter are scattered stone-heaps, representing the toll of past centuries.

Mr. Pierce was a good carpenter. He was engaged in trade in past years, but during a long period of ill health he has remained in a quiet, natural life.

He was a man of good morals, a democrat in politics, a Universalist in creed.

He leaves a widow and one son, Allen M. Pierce of Somerville, Mass., who with his wife, daughter and two sons, attended the funeral at the residence on Saturday afternoon. He had one brother, John H., of Chicago. His sisters, Mrs. Jane Clement and Mrs. Julia A. Lord of Rochester, N. H., and Mrs. Hattie Burr of Freedom, N. H., a daughter of Mrs. Lord, were also present.

Rev. Hervey H. Boyt, pastor of the Hiram Universalist church, preached one of his best sermons and paid a tribute to his long life and useful ministries.

Shepherd River Lodge, F. & A. M., of Brownfield, of which the deceased has long been a worthy member, attended and rendered Masonic honors.

Picking up loose money has grown to be such a hardship for the overworked rural free delivery carriers that the Post Office Department, Aug. 27th, issued an order warning wreckless citizens against leaving loose coin lying around. WOMAN IN TERRIBLE STATE

Finds Help in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Belleuve, Ohio.—"I was in a terrible state before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. My back ached until I thought it would break. I had pains all over me, nervous feelings and periodic troubles. I was very weak and run down and was losing hope of ever being well and strong. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I improved rapidly and today am a well woman. I cannot tell you how happy I feel and I cannot say too much for your Compound. Would not be without it in the house if it cost three times the amount."—Mrs. CHAS. CHAPMAN, R. F. D. No. 7, Belleuve, Ohio.

Because your case is a difficult one, doctors having done you no good, do not continue to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It surely has remedied many cases of female ills, such as inflammation, ulceration, displacements, tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, and it may be exactly what you need.

The Pinkham record is a proud and peerless one. It is a record of constant victory over the obstinate ills of woman—ills that deal out despair. It is an established fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored health to thousands of such suffering women. Why don't you try it if you need such a medicine?

Appalachian Camp at Stow.

Mountain Club Members are Living in Tents while they explore Chatham Valley.

The following is taken from the Boston Transcript for Saturday, August 16. The Appalachian Mountain Club has for its camp this week and next a new part of the White Mountains the Chatham Valley.

The actual site of the array of tents is in Stow, Me., near its northern boundary, and as is very suitable in a state with temperance principles, is located on the west bank of the Great Cold River, which is in the district, the Baldface peaks at 3500 and 3800 feet. There comes from the south into the Keamsarge country.

Cliffs are the order of the day and from the spur of Mount Royce in Maine to the south curves the great Meander cirque, locally known as The Basin, with walls so steep that in places no trees can grow.

The Meander peak, a strong bold rock summit, at 2520 feet shows massive boulders, and from its top the ridges bears away south, rising to Eagle crag at 3000 feet and continuing to the striking feature of the district, the Baldface peaks at 3500 and 3800 feet. There comes from the south into the Keamsarge country.

The Baldface Mountains are of the cone-shaped structure and the upper structure and the upper portion have shed down their slabs into shaly taluses that are very hard to climb. Here on South Baldface the club has a reservation with noble views in all directions.

The Baldface camp has brought out a number of novel features. The first shows the great strength of the club and the way in which it assimilates the material that comes to it for membership. Only four of the personnel may be classed as of the regular camping "crowd," yet it is an Appalachian camp, the club colors flying, and the same enthusiasm over nature and walking, the same abundant energy.

Scholarship in the Wilds. The company about the camp fire in the evening has more than usual of the college element, and the conversations rather more scientific order.

Half-a-dozen about a table discussing the principles of Mendel's law of variation of species, most of whom had drawn their inspiration from acknowledged masters, was one novelty. Experts in botany and entomology are also present, as are photographers of the sterling old "tripod and focusing cloth" order.

For the first day in camp it was Royce by one party and Baldface across the country by another; two strenuous walks, Sunday was quiet, for it was cloudy, developing into rain, and with two clergymen for committee a little vespers reading was not forgotten. Monday, with superb skies and clear outlook, was devoted to Mr. Meader, and Tuesday started the company for a two-day hike into the tangled mazes of the Wild River woods.

An interesting experiment to see better the daylight hours has been the shifting of clocks to "valley" time. The valley in question must, however, be one in the lost Atlantis for the official clock of the camp has been set two hours ahead. The rising whistle is at 4.30, which the clock said was 6.30 and the start for the Meader walk was 5.30, which corresponded to the name 7.30 or 8. The club is early afoot and gains its peaks in the cool of the morning.

Tramping up Mount Washington. The tramping season, as well as that of riding up Mount Washington by railway, is in full swing; 60 to 100 being the record by the latter while scores gain the summit by abank's main.

It is still a bit early for the moving of the camps, although in fairly good number they have registered at the Tip-top house.

From Kinsport Camp in Maine, the other day, there came to the top by carriage, nearly 20 of the boys, mostly about the age of 12. They had established a camp in the Glen and came up the road by moonlight, arriving in time to see the sunrise.

Your Pocket-Knife, the Best Tobacco-Cutting Machine

Because it cuts the tobacco off the plug as you use it—insuring you fresh tobacco for every pipeful. When machines chop up tobacco months before it reaches your pipe, the little pieces of tobacco lose their aroma. When you smoke them, they burn fast and hot, and bite your tongue.

All the natural moisture, flavor and fragrance of the tobacco are pressed into the Sickle Plug, and kept there by nature's own protector—the natural leaf wrapper. It only takes a couple of minutes to whittle off a pipeful—and you are rewarded by a cool, sweet, satisfying smoke that no ready-cut-up tobacco in the world can give you.

Convenient—no bulge in your pocket. Economical—no package to pay for—no loose tobacco to get spilled and wasted. Get a plug of Sickle at your dealer's today.

Joseph Andrews' Letters.

Another letter from my sister not long ago enclosed one from Mrs. Esther Andrews Cooper living near Douglas, Wyo., telling of the death of their son, Lynn Cooper. Until a few years ago when he had a stroke of paralysis he was prominent in social and political circles in Wyoming. He was three times elected to the Wyoming Legislature and served the last term as Speaker of the House. He was born in Maine. His mother was a Lovell Centre girl. Mr. and Mrs. Cooper, now both past their 80th year are now living on their ranch 20 miles south of Douglas, and are both in good health. They have one married daughter living near them and two married daughters living in Montana. The Griffith Park referred to is a mountain park of 3,000 acres given to Los Angeles several years ago by a Mr. Griffith. The generous donor last winter made the city a present of $100,000 to build a tower and erect a large telescope for the free use of the common people of Los Angeles. I spent two weeks at San Diego with the families of E. P. Fitch and Mrs. V. P. Fessenden former residents of South Bridgton who with their kindfolk to the number of ten have chosen this beautiful city for their home and where they have been living for the last four years. San Diego is one of the beauty spots of California, it has a fine land locked harbor and a climate unsurpassed. The city is growing by leaps and bounds and made a strong bid for the World's Fair Exposition in 1915. Fairing in to that, it is making valuable improvements in its park and planning for a World's Fair of their own. Tourists going to San Francisco in 1915 should plan to visit San Diego first and they will be both surprised and pleased if in winter time, with the climate and the fruit and flowers, the growing in the orchards and gardens as well as the fine art displays that will be made in the great exhibition buildings now being built.

While I was there they had the cold snap that they had had in forty years. On the morning of Jan. 8 the thermometer went to 20 above zero and ice formed on the city Plaza fountain over half an inch thick. It did immense damage to the oranges and lemons with which the trees were loaded, fully 50 per cent of all such fruit was ruined. In many exposed places the orange and lemon leaves were killed dead and the orchards looked like frosted conical back east in the fall, while in other localities no damage was done. A friend of mine living at West Riverside with whom I visited had just finished picking his oranges from his thirty acre orchard and he told me that his loss was fifty per cent. When I left Los Angeles the last of March the orange and lemon trees were leaving out again. They were budding also and the general opinion was that there would be an average crop of California golden fruit.

When I was in San Diego the Armored Cruisers Sonnet, Dakota, and the Colorado and quite a fleet of destroyers and submarines and several gunboats were in the harbor. I visited the Colorado and was much impressed with the power and beauty of this great ship which is only one of many of Uncle Sam's great fighting machines. Americans have good reason to be proud of the American navy and of the men behind the guns.

I spent a week and made several side trips to Long Beach, one of the largest and most popular of California's many beach resorts. It has fine hotels, rooming houses and business blocks.

A two story pier extends out into the ocean over 700 feet, at the farther end a large auditorium has been built in which band concerts and dances and other entertainments are often given. On the beach and a part of this great pier is an immense auditorium built and owned by the city of Long Beach. The lower floor is fitted up with seats, tables, etc., for free use by the public for picnics, parties and the like. The upper floor has a fine large stage in the rear, a wide gallery extends around three sides of the hall. The spacious hall and gallery are seats for a large congregation. Afternoons and evenings free concerts are given by Long Beach municipal band who are inured for that purpose by the city. In this vast hall have been wont to meet from time to time great crowds of people on public occasions such as conventions, state picnics, etc.

I attended the Southern California poultry show when the building was crowded to its fullest capacity. I also attended there one evening when the hall was packed to listen to Eva Booth, daughter of Gen. Booth whose subject was "My Father and His Life Work." I think that it was the latter part of May that a vast crowd of English and Canadian tourists met at the Auditorium for their annual picnic, when owing to a defective piling or girder, the pier gave way in front of the entrance to the building and a number of people crushed through both floors to the beach 25 or 30 feet below. A day of rejoicing was turned into a day of mourning, 39 dead and more than 100 wounded paid the toll of someones carelessness. The auditorium has been condemned and has been or will be torn down.

On January 1st I attended the Carnival of Roses at Pasadena. It was a grand pageant and reminded me very much of the coach parade that I attended in North Conway, N. H., in the summer of 1892, but this was mid winter and that was mid-summer. I was told that two cars of flowers were shipped in from the state of Washington with which to decorate the various floats. That is accounted for by the fact that Southern California had instead of one several hard frosts that killed most of the tender flowers that grew out in the open.

Around Glendale and Tropic in ordinary winters tomatoes, asparagus and strawberries home grown are on the market all winter, but the last few winters have been unusually severe and tender fruit and flowers have been often shipped by old Jack Frost.
